

Role: Resident physician

It is July and you are first year resident rotating through the emergency room. A patient was just placed in bed 9 by the ER HUC. Chief complaint: "suicide attempt". You still don't know a lot of medicine, so you're trying to be very thorough with your patients at this time.

The exercise begins with the nurse triaging the patient without you. When they are done, they should get you so you can interview the patient. Afterward, present the patient to your attending and then they will come to see the patient and discuss the plan with the patient and their parent.
